

ABSTRACT

A transmission-reception apparatus does not configure ARQ control information from only sequence number, but the transmission-reception apparatus
5 configures the ARQ control information such that the ARQ control information is comprised of one sequence number containing first occurrence of a corresponding packet's error, and bit information representing existence of retransmission requirements about sequence numbers
10 followed on the heels of such the one sequence number.